Patrick's Point State Park Camping Available on First-Come, First-Served Basis

EUREKA - Patrick's Point State Park has camping available on a first-come, first-served basis.

One of the gems in the California State Parks system, the park is located 25 miles north of Eureka on Highway 101. The park features miles of beach, whale watching from high bluffs, a reconstructed Yurok Native American village, plus accessible camping, picnicking, exhibits and trails.

The park is not on the reservation system due to postponed rehabilitation projects originally scheduled for this summer.

Visitors are advised to call ahead to check on availability, especially before major holidays:
